Haiti Almost Spoiled Meet With Bribe

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

PORT AU PRINCE (AP) — A near-disaster for U.S. diplomacy in the hemisphere foreign ministers conference still causes shudders among some American observers.

The threat came from poverty-stricken Haiti, a nation about the size of Vermont, whose 3½ million citizens are ruled with an iron fist by President Francois Duvalier.

Persons at the Punta del Este conference who were in a position to know say Haiti's delegation suddenly and blandly informed the United States that Haiti wanted money.

Evidently the delegation considered itself in a good bargaining position. It required 14 votes of the hemisphere nations to vote Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba out of the Organization of American States. Only 13 votes could, at one moment, be considered secure. Six nations led by such reluctant big ones as Brazil, Mexico and Argentina, would abstain from voting for immediate expulsion.

If the U.S. delegation lost out on that issue after focusing so much world attention upon it, Washington prestige would suffer a painful blow.

But toward the end of the complicated haggling over what to do about Castro's regime, the Haitians suddenly changed their minds again. What did it? A U.S. spokesman was asked.

"Diplomacy," he snapped, and then added, "There was no bribe."

The Haitian regime has a reputation for expertise in the field of less-than-gentle persuasion.

Reporting from Haiti's capital, Port au Prince, the Miami Herald's Al Burt wrote last week that Duvalier's reputation for political maneuvering was spotlighted by "dangling the bait of Haiti's vote before the United States" at Punta del Este, and that this "apparently won him concessions."

An OAS commission, Burt reported, is weighing Haiti's qualifications for Alliance for Progress aid in the light of what appears to be a Duvalier demand that aid be given with no check whatever on how the money is used. U.S. aid to Haiti was cut off June 30, pending a check on Duvalier's use of the money.

Haiti had received more than $40 million in U.S. aid since 1954 before the funds were cut off in June.

Burt reported: "If the U.S. dollars don't flow, few doubt that Duvalier will take help from anyone else who offers it. The closest place to turn, of course, is next-door Cuba and its Soviet big daddy."

Thurmond Demands Probing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., demanded today that the Senate investigation of Pentagon censoring of anti-Communist speeches resume at the earliest despite orders from President Kennedy silencing some key witnesses.

Thurmond, whose attacks on the censoring of military men's speeches against communism had forced the investigation by a special subcommittee, said in an interview he saw no danger that the spreading rows surrounding the inquiry might torpedo it.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said they would resume, possibly in a week or so.

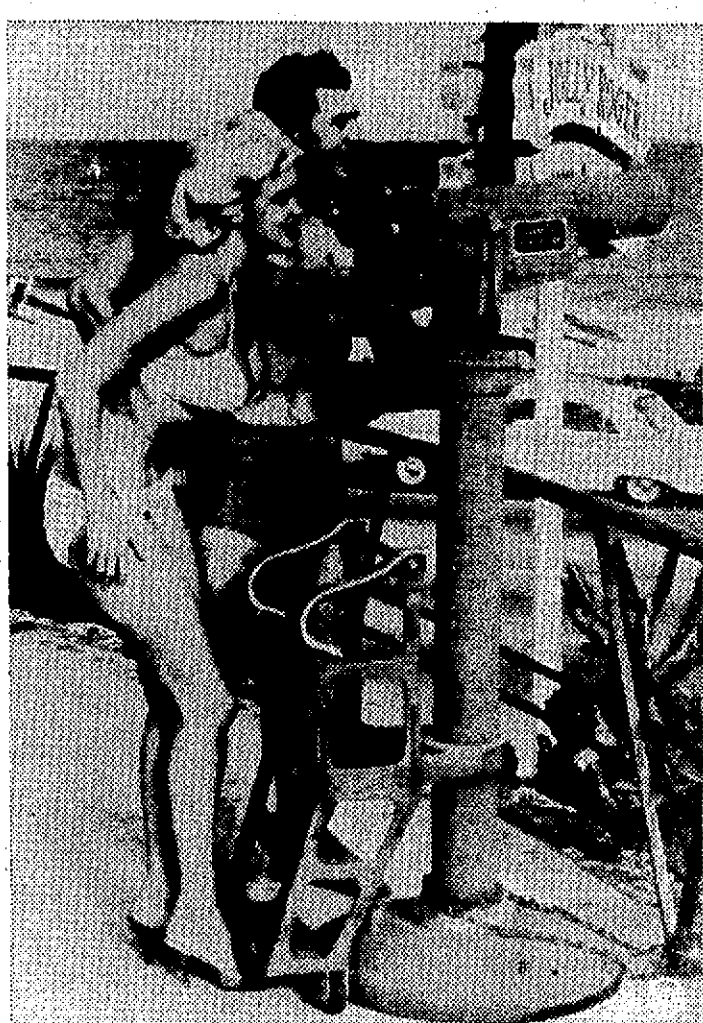

Kennedy Thursday forbade Defense or State Department officials to tell the subcommittee which censors altered the texts of specific speeches. Stennis sustained the President's claim of executive privilege as a basis for the order.

In another development, a row erupted on the Senate floor and in the Pentagon over the questioning by two subcommittees aides of approximately 30 Marines about the cold war and communism.

Vaccinations for Bangs During March

Farmers of Hempstead County will have an opportunity to have their calves vaccinated against Bangs disease during the month of March.

Notices are being mailed this week from the County Extension office to those who are on the mailing list. Those who do not receive one of these notices through the mail, should either call the county agents office or mail in the number of calves that need to be vaccinated.

Calfood vaccination against Bangs is one of the best methods of keeping cattle herds of Hempstead County free of costly Bangs disease. Cattleherds of Hempstead have already tested their cattle and the county is now on a Modified-Certified Bangs Free rating and the calfood vaccination will help to keep this good rating for the county. Every cattle owner in Hempstead should take advantage of this program said Mr. Caldwell.

The proper ages for vaccinating calves against Bangs is from 4 to 8 months of age. All requests for vaccination should be in the county agents office not later than Feb. 20.

Dedication of Pea Ridge Delayed

PEA RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—Dedication of the Pea Ridge National battlefield has been postponed until May 31, 1963. The dedication had been set for May of this year.

Officials of the battlefield commission said that the postponement came after discussion with National Parks Service officials. The battlefield is now part of the national park system.

Preliminary work has been started at the site and bids for construction of permanent facilities are scheduled to be opened this month.

The officials said most of the work is expected to be completed by the dedication date.

Same Building Is Damaged

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—Last spring a tornado ripped the roof of the southeast corner of the physical education building at Arkansas State College and did extensive damage.

The structure was remodeled with an eye towards reducing wind resistance. Even a tower was removed.

Thursday night wind struck again—on the southeast corner of the building. It lifted the roof, then set it back down, scattering a few bricks.

Thursday night's high wind, which accompanied a thunderstorm, also snapped off 11 telephone poles northeast of town and broke a plate glass window. The poles were snapped neatly about two feet from the ground and the wire laid in a field, but service was not interrupted.

Decision From Romney Is Due Today

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Michigan awaited an answer today to a political question that has stirred nationwide interest: Will industrialist George Romney seek the Republican nomination for governor?

The consensus was that he would. But as his announcement at a news conference neared, there were some with doubts among those closely associated with the American Motors Corp. president.

"You just can't measure him by ordinary standards," an associate said. "That's what would make him a refreshing candidate."

Romney's scheduled news conference followed a night of seclusion at his Bloomfield Hills suburban home, where he prayerfully sought "guidance beyond that of man." A devout Mormon, he occupies a post in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints equivalent to that of a bishop.

The two-year term of Michigan's next governor would end in 1964—a presidential year. And among those who have suggested Romney as "a promising prospect" for the GOP White House is former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Only last month former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said the handsome, graying AMC president would make "an attractive candidate" and was "a very impressive fellow, with a very articulate, pleasant personality."

Some others within GOP ranks have suggested him as a possible compromise between liberals headed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and conservatives headed by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Romney pooh-poohed suggestions he had any political ambitions beyond the governorship after he conceded he was considering the race.

Romney discussed the situation in a television interview, tape-recorded earlier for broadcast Friday night on the CBS network program "Eyewitness." He said the principal factor guiding him toward a decision on whether to run for governor is "How can I do the most good?"

Asked about a "Romney for president" boom, he replied, "All I know about that is what I've read about it." He said it was something that has developed spontaneously and "not as a result of anything I've done."

Romney said it was too early to predict Republican chances in the 1964 presidential campaign, but added, "I certainly am not prepared to conclude that Mr. Kennedy is going to have two terms."

In Syracuse, N.Y., Republican National Chairman William E. Miller predicted that Rockefeller, Nixon and Romney would win gubernatorial races this year.

Miller told newsmen that any man who captured the governorship of a populous state, especially one now controlled by Democrats, "certainly would get strong consideration as the party's presidential candidate. He said Rockefeller would win re-election in New York by a wider margin than his half million of 1953.

Wilson, who originated the idea for the committee, made the remark after city officials at Fayetteville and Rogers criticized the committee on ground that no one from northwest Arkansas was named to it.

The committee—composed of six business leaders and two chamber officials, including Wilson — was formed earlier this week. It has one member from Fort Smith, 61 miles south of Fayetteville and generally regarded as a northwest Arkansas city.

Wilson said committee membership will be expanded later with the probability that someone from the Fayetteville-Rogers area would be named to it.

Mayor Guy E. Brown of Fayetteville protested that northwest Arkansas residents did not even know the committee was being formed. The chamber made no advance announcement about the committee, which is headed by Leonard Ellis, ticket chairman.

They also may be purchased from C of C directors.

Haskell Jones, manager of radio station KXAR, will be MC and the principal address will be delivered by Kenneth Pat Wilson, president of the Arkansas C of C.

Thinks Quarantine Causes Wars

RIVER FALLS, Wis. (AP)—Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, said Thursday that the "increasing quantity" of government "brings on wars."

"This is the greatest tragedy of the 20th century, this increasing quantity of government," Welch said. "It brings on wars. Do you think that if we had only one-third of the government there is in the world, that there would be a possibility of war?"

Welch made the statement in response to a question about what he would suggest to "restore the United States to a republic."

Earlier, Welch gave the convocation address at a conference on "the new conservatism," sponsored by River Falls State College.

Illegal Red Move Balked by Allies

BERLIN (AP)—The three Western powers balked what they called an illegal attempt by the Soviets to reserve temporarily two of the air corridors to Berlin for Soviet military planes, an Allied spokesman disclosed today.

The spokesman said the Russians served notice that on Thursday and Friday mornings they would require the corridors for Russian military planes up to certain altitudes. But all Western commercial planes flew the corridors as usual.

The Allies said Soviet planes would have to abide by four-power rules and that "reserving" blocks of altitude in the corridors was illegal. The Western powers also announced their planes would fly as usual.

All the scheduled commercial flights between Berlin and Frankfurt, Hannover and Hamburg were made normally. The Allies also sent extra military transports through the corridors as a further demonstration of their rights.

There were no incidents and the pilots of Allied planes sighted no Soviet aircraft.

Jane Tells of Fearful Experience

By BEN FUNK

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Jayne Mansfield said today "I thought I was going to die" when she perched all night Wednesday on a jagged coral atoll with the waves breaking over her and her husband, Mickey Hargitay.

The blonde actress received reporters in her hospital room today. She was dressed in a plain white hospital gown and displayed shapely tanned legs which were covered with mosquito and sand flea bites.

Jayne had slept 12 hours during the night and reported she felt so well that "I'm on top of the clouds."

The 28-year-old actress, her weight-lifting husband, and a friend, publicity man Jack Drury, 35, were rescued Thursday morning by boat from desolate Rose Island after a U.S. Coast Guard plane spotted them. It was one of scores of search craft that scoured Nassau Harbor and the Atlantic around it for the trio after they failed to return from a water-skiing excursion.

Hargitay, 32, and Drury, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., hotel publicist, suffered exposure and coral rock scrapes. They were not hospitalized.

At a news conference following their return to Nassau Thursday, Hargitay wept when newsmen bluntly asked if the trio's disappearance was a publicity stunt.

"Anyone who thinks this is a publicity stunt has got a mixed up mind," he snapped.

Hargitay said their troubles began when Jayne fell off her water skis and he dove into the sea to help her. Drury was at the wheel of their rented 17-foot outboard motorboat.

Edith W. Smith, 78, Dies Friday

Edith Webb Smith, 78, died in a local hospital this morning. She was a resident of Spring Hill, and a member of the Methodist Church.

She is survived by her husband, C. A. Smith, Spring Hill, and one nephew, Clyde McNeil of Spring Hill.

The body will remain at Oakcrest Funeral Home until today when it will be taken to Winona, Miss.

Valentine's Day Is a Time for Love But History Shows It Wasn't Always That Way

By MARY ANITA LASETER

"Love Makes the World Go Round" according to popular music, and by the speed with which our world is turning now, there must be an awful lot of Love Bugs working overtime.

Next Wednesday, Valentine's Day, will find messages of devotion being sent many places to help these creatures ply their trade. If it also helps with the peaceful turning of the earth, that's ever better. Why did we get started on this Valentine's Day observance anyway, and why does it occur at this time of year?

Oh, a number of hands went up in answer to that question. Yes, the day was named for a saint by that name. But which saint? We aren't sure. There were a considerable number of saints named Valentine or Valentines. At least two of them died martyr's deaths on this date, and it is believed that February 14 was selected as the time for the observance for that reason.

Information about killing ancient priests doesn't seem like fitting background for anything as lovely as a Valentine's Day celebration. Maybe someone along the years of time got their information confused. Even though most authorities agree that St. Valentine was a Christian martyr beheaded about 50 A. D. by the Roman Emperor Claudius, there is another Valentine with a romantic history.

Immortalized in a romance told in French (the original), English, German, Teutonic, Dutch, and Italian Valentine and Orson were twin brothers abandoned in the woods in infancy (sounds a little like Romulus and Remus, so far).

The rest of the legend is difficult, however. Valentine was brought up as a knight at the court of Pippin, while Orson grew up in a bear's den. He became a wild man of the woods until he was overcome and tamed by Valentine, whose servant and comrade he became. The two eventually rescued their mother, Belissant, from the power of a giant. In true fairy tale manner, I'm sure, they "lived happily ever after."

You liked the other story better? The one about the saint who sent messages "from your Valentine"? Well, all right. Maybe that is the right background, but we thought you'd give a little different version of the legend to you this year.

Not many are alive today who know for sure which is the correct story. Certainly not this writer. If love makes the world revolve, then differences that are not hostile balance the globe on its axis. So, take the story you prefer and all will be happy.

Says Russia Gained By Nuclear Tests

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's top disarmament adviser reported today that the Soviet Union "achieved some substantial gains" in nuclear weapons development in its long series of test explosions last fall.

Disarmament Director William C. Foster said the Soviet accomplishment has become clear to U.S. officials "only in the last month."

His words indicated either that the United States has come into possession of new intelligence information or that fresh conclusions have recently been reached by the scientists analyzing such information as they have been able to get on the Soviet test series.

Foster made his statement about Soviet test results in a letter to the Washington Post which gave further indication that the Kennedy administration is moving steadily toward a decision within the next few weeks to order atmospheric testing of U.S. nuclear weapons.

Foster referred to the "substantial gains" made by the Soviet testers and weapons developers.

"One more such advantage—that is, another long and intensive series, after a period of no testing on either side during which they extrapolated the results of these tests and on that basis secretly prepared for new tests—might actually give them a superiority in the antimissile or other strategic areas which their military interest would find hard not to exploit."

Soviet hopes for military dominance, Foster said, seem to increase.

Variety of Corn Means Better Yield

The selection of the best variety of corn may mean as much as 10 to 15 bushels per acre yield says County Agent Caldwell. Varieties of corn recommended for South-west Arkansas are as follows:

Early maturing group, McCurdy 908; middle maturing group Dixie 22, Dixie 20, Funk G-711AA, G-102; and the late maturing group Dixie 82 and Funk G-220. Of the above varieties McCurdy 908, Dixie 22 and Dixie 20 are recommended for both silage and grain.

Another method of increasing yield will be to take a soil sample and follow recommendations to the results of the sample. Corn farmers and other farmers in Hempstead County may have their soil tested free by taking a sample to the county agent's office.

Mrs. Hall Files for Treasurer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Secretary of State Nancy Hall filed today as a candidate for state treasurer in this summer's Democratic primaries.

Mrs. Hall is seeking her first elective office. She was appointed to her present position in January, 1961, to succeed her late husband, C. G. Hall, who had held the office since 1937.

As an appointee Mrs. Hall is ineligible to run for secretary of state. She is seeking the position now held by L. A. Clayton, also an appointee and ineligible to succeed himself.

Mrs. Hall signed her corrupt practices pledge and paid her $500 filing fee in cash today in her own office.

In a statement, he said, "Though I have never held elective public office, I have been closely associated with state government for the past 30 years. For 24 of those years I served as assistant secretary of state and confidential secretary to my late husband."

"Because of my close association with state government operations through this long period, I know fully and appreciate the duties and responsibilities of the state treasurer's office."

"In the coming months I plan to travel throughout the state, visiting old friends and making new ones in the interest of my candidacy. I wish very much to continue to serve and to work with the people of Arkansas. It has been my life."

Mrs. Hall first came to work for the state in 1925 as an employee in the old Department of Lands, Highways and Improvements.

She met her late husband in 1925 when she was helping in the campaign of her boss, Herbert R. Wilson, and Hall was working for Dwight Blackwood the man who unseated Wilson. The couple married in 1929.

Thompson Again Meets Gromyko

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson had his fourth meeting of 1962 with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on the Berlin question today.

The meeting was requested by Gromyko and lasted an hour and 45 minutes. The previous three meetings had been held at Thompson's suggestion.

There was no comment from Thompson when he emerged.

Parking Lot to Close Monday

The parking lot opposite W. Shanhouse Sons plant at Division and Hazel Sts. will be closed Monday and remain so for two weeks or more while it is being graded, graveled, and marked, Hope Star announced today.

Star Publishing Co. bought the property from Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harbin last July 5, but improvements have been delayed until now because of lateness in removing an old warehouse from the site and winter weather that forbids any earth-moving. B. W. Edwards is directing the work for the newspaper company.

Education Bill Offered . . . Would Solve Problem

By LARRY GRIUS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Democrat has unveiled a proposal for federal aid to education that shifts the thorny problem of church-supported schools to the states.

Rep. Cleveland Bailey, D-W.Va., discussed his $500-million-a-year program Friday at a House conference during which he drove to muster public support for the measure also was disclosed.

President Kennedy's proposal for a $2.1-billion program for classroom construction and teachers salaries was killed by the House Rules Committee last year, partly because of the dispute over whether federal aid should go to church-supported schools.

Bailey's proposal is to give the states 2 per cent of the amount they have been spending on education and let them decide how it should be divided.

Kennedy this week reiterated his stand against federal aid for church or private schools on grounds it would be unconstitutional. Members of the Roman Catholic Church hierarchy have argued that if public schools receive federal aid, private and church schools should get the same consideration.

Also at the news conference was George J. Hecht, a magazine publisher, who announced plans for a "large, representative bipartisan committee" to mobilize public support for Bailey's bill.

Hecht said members of the committee include James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University; former Sen. William Benton of Connecticut, now a book publisher; and Arthur Flemming, former secretary of health, education and welfare.

Bailey said a House education subcommittee that he heads will hold hearings on the proposal Feb. 27, primarily to show what school districts in representative states could expect to receive under the bill.

No Passes, If He Runs, Says Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that, if he continues as governor, he would ask the legislature to abolish passes for horse races at Hot Springs, Oaklawn Park.

The governor said it was impossible for his office to supply the demand for passes.

"I'd recommend we abolish passes and set some fee which everybody will pay," Faubus said. "Then we'd dedicate the state's share of this fee to some worthy cause of government."

Faubus quite frankly was annoyed with the confusion which applications for racing passes create in his office each year.

"I wish there were more people who belonged to the church and didn't go to the track and you can quote that, too," the governor said.

Faubus said the pass giving practice was well established before he became governor and he did not feel he could end it by executive decree.

"But West Memphis is proof we don't have to handle them," he said. "They've got passes for the dog racing track there, but we don't touch them. I don't ever want any."

Faubus said there were those who contended that elimination of passes reduced attendance at race tracks. "We get about $1 million a year in revenue from Oaklawn and that is why I've hesitated to act before this," Faubus said.

Pope Asks Prayer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII said today that the Roman Catholic Church is anxious for the return of various Christian confessions that are separated from it.

In an apostolic letter he asked priests throughout the world to pray for the success of the Ecumenical Council which will convene in St. Peter's on Oct. 11.

After 40, a woman should stop patting herself on the back and start working on her chin.

World Bank to Finance Ghana Dam

WASHINGTON AP — The World Bank has formally agreed to lend Ghana $47 million to help finance the giant Volta River power project.

All told, installations in the Volta project will cost $324 million, including a huge aluminum plant to be built by an American group headed by Kaiser Aluminum Co.

The station will have an initial capacity of 589,000 kilowatts, now available in the African nation. Steam plants are Ghana's only current source of electric power.

The loan formally approved Thursday is for 25 years at 5 1/2 per cent interest.

Ghana is putting up $98 million toward the dam. The United States is supplying almost all the outside financing. This help was granted only after long consideration here of how much aid should be given Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah, who has been flouting with the Soviet bloc.

U.S. financing includes loans of $27 million from the Agency for International Development, and $10 million from the Export-Import Bank.

The aluminum combine will use $32 million of its own money for the Volta plant, and is getting $98 million in loans plus a $54-million guarantee against loss of the plant by expropriation.

Tornado Hits Arkansas Town

ENOLA, Ark. (AP) — A windstorm described as a tornado struck the Marcus Hill community about four miles west of Enola late Thursday night heavily damaging three homes and two barns. No one was injured.

Enola is 22 miles northeast of Conway.

The storm badly damaged the home of Herndon Hoggard, blew a porch from the home of Virgil Roberts and the roof off the Doyle Jolly home.

Barns owned by Ted Ingram and the Rev. Emory Sherrard were damaged. Residents said the storm temporarily knocked out electric power. Tree limbs and other debris were scattered through the community.

prize Package was won by Mrs. Neil Osborn. The latter also had charge of the program, "New Ways With Cast-Aways."

Nine members were served pie and coffee for refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Neil Osborn.

dicate that they will press for another moratorium on testing during which they would make secret preparations for a second test series aimed at such a lead in the nuclear arms race.

Poster said it seems logical for the Soviets to follow such tactics, seeking a new moratorium "before our own atmospheric tests could restore the original margin of our lead."

The implication that the U.S. lead actually has been narrowed constituted an argument that atmospheric tests of American weapons obviously are necessary.

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County's decision to drop its foster homes program for child welfare clients will not affect the state-wide program which is administered by the state Welfare Department.

Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams said Pulaski was the only county which administers its own foster homes program. Other counties which need such a program work through the Welfare Department, he said.

"We step in wherever we are asked to," Adams said. "We take care of any child who is certified to us by a proper agency."

The state probably will not act in the Pulaski County case unless asked to by county officials, Adams said.

Pulaski County Judge Arch Campbell announced early this month that he would end the county's foster homes program the middle of this month and place all the children in a county-operated home with 24-hour supervision.

Campbell said expense of the foster home program was one factor in his decision. He said he also felt the children would get better care in an institution.

His action drew criticism from social welfare groups and some doctors. Campbell said, however, he would stick by his decision.

Adams said the Child Welfare Department of the state agency has about 1,000 children in foster homes over the state and the program appears to be working well.

"We screen potential foster homes carefully to make sure the children will get proper care," he said.

Although children to be cared for are usually certified by county officials, the state bears the entire cost of the program, except in Pulaski County, Adams said.

"I'm sure we could operate some kind of program in Pulaski County too, if we were asked to," he added. "We have a duty to the children in the state."

Pulaski County has operated its own program for many years, Adams said, apparently because the county preferred to do it that way.

Adams said the state provides clothing and pays school and medical expenses for the foster children and pays the foster parent $25 or $30 a month for room and board.

"It's not a money making proposition, but we have some parents whose hearts are big enough to take these children in," Adams said.

While Campbell cited expense as a reason for his decision, state officials believe it is cheaper to have foster homes than to maintain institutions.

A factor, perhaps, is Pulaski County's heavy population. When Campbell decided to change the system, Pulaski had about 15 children three years old and under in foster homes. It already held children over three in a county home.

The state foster home program care for children up to age 18. Even with the larger age range, there are some counties which have no children in foster homes and others which have only one or two.

As a general practice, the Welfare Department tries to place children in a home outside their home county, partly to avoid possible conflict with the natural parents and partly to give the child a complete new environment in which to make a difficult adjustment.

Also, the Welfare Department keeps close supervision over the program and does not use foster homes in counties where there is no child welfare worker stationed.

Union County, for example, has its children placed in homes in Columbia and Ouachita counties. Pope County's six foster home cases are placed in other counties.

Wants in Market

BRUSSELS, Belgium AP — Spain today officially requested association with the European Economic Community.

Association status is not so binding as full membership in the common market. So far only Greece is associated with the six-nation group, but Turkey, Austria, Switzerland and Sweden have asked for association and Britain, Ireland and Denmark have asked for full membership.

DOROTHY DIX Are Working Mothers to Blame For Juvenile Delinquency?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

The other day while waiting in the Kansas City airport for a plane to Salt Lake City, I overheard two women discussing a neighbor whose son had been arrested along with other teenagers for vandalism. They held it against the mother that she worked.

I was all attention. The lead letter for my Saturday column was from a little girl in defense of her mother working.

Hastily snatching a notebook and pen from my purse, I settled down to the role of eavesdropper.

"If Merta had been home where she belongs instead of in the office, this never would have happened," said the first woman. "Being a mother is a full time job."

The second agreed. "Suppose she didn't have the money to keep going after Ned died, her folks should have helped. After all, the welfare of your child comes first."

The two were still holding kangaroo court when my flight was announced. Once the plane reached altitude I fastened my seat belt and reached into my bag for the letter from the little girl whose mother worked. Mary Wilkinson was her name and she lives in Orem, Utah. She wrote with a conviction and fluency unusual in a teen-ager. "Every time a kid gets into trouble, people blame home conditions," she declared. "And if the mother is working, they rant and rave about how there would be no delinquency if mothers stayed home and looked after their children."

"The kids around here who got into trouble all had mothers at home, but being home didn't make those women good mothers. They never cared what happened to their children. They would take off for a movie, housework half done, dinner still to be cooked, and night after night they would be out dancing while their kids were home alone."

"My mother has worked ever since I was seven and my sister nine, but she stays home at night with us and in the day we are left with a dependable relative. Our mother is always thinking of us, never herself. Because she works, we have good clothes (the latest style), an allowance (which we save for essential things), and a home that is a real home. If my sister and I amount to anything, it is because of a working mother and she is no different from others who work. To blame them for juvenile delinquency is very unfair and I will dispute any one who says different."

One shouldn't generalize but I am inclined to agree with Mary. The two women who blame the working mother of the wild boy, were speaking from hearsay. They couldn't know all the facts. Youngsters just don't go suddenly delinquent. Latent within them, almost from birth, is the will to do right or the will to do wrong. Children born with every advantage in the world sometimes develop into scoundrels while others who practically grew up on dungheaps become great human beings.

A parent by setting an example can encourage a child to be his best self, as in the case of Mary's mother. On the whole, I believe that a mother who works is better qualified to be a mother and homemaker than one who doesn't. Because of her very contact with life, she will be more understanding.

My own mother had the job of editing the J. G. Mitchell Wholesale Trade Publication when I was a small child. This took her to downtown New York every day. Since her hours were comparatively short, she could drop me at school on her way to the office and pick me up as she came home.

The summer routine was different. We boarded in the country and Mother commuted. This put me on my own. For the first time, though never really alone because there were always other people around, I felt responsible for me. Good or bad, my deeds would be on my head. This responsibility developed a self-reliance which I might not otherwise have acquired—certainly not at such an early age if my Mother hadn't worked.

Amendment Has Row to Hoe

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Woodruff County Rep. Jack S. Oakes has the proverbial hard row to hoe if he expects to get his Industrial and Hospital Amendment to the state Constitution on the November election ballot.

Oakes filed the amendment with the attorney general's office Thursday for legal approval. Then he will have to get 42,199 signatures on petitions. He must publish the amendment by June 5 and file it with the secretary of state's office, with the signatures, by July 5.

The amendment would enable

TV a Problem to Expert Monologist

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Cornelia Otis Skinner is a woman of many talents. She is a writer of very funny books and short articles, probably the best known female monologist in the nation and a Broadway star. But television has been a problem.

"When television people want me, they usually want me to do one of my monologues," she said. "And, unfortunately, my longer monologues don't break down to the required four, five or six minutes that are given to me. So, in the appearances I've made on shows like Ed Sullivan's, it hasn't been very satisfactory."

However, the picture may be changing. A few weeks back, Miss Skinner had an important role in NBC's adaptation of "The Farmer's Daughter," playing a son of Alice Roosevelt Longworth part, which brought her a lot of critical bouquets.

Tonight Miss Skinner will be the on-camera narrator of NBC's amusing "Debutante '2" to explain this interesting matrimonial institution.

After these two exposures, more TV doors should be opening for her. With one-man shows a TV specialty — Victor Borge, Danny Thomas and others — why doesn't somebody set up a one-woman show for Miss Skinner and her monologues?

NBC has signed an exclusive contract with Robert Horton. That not only means that "Wagon Train" TV's top-rated show, will lose its top star, Horton, when it moves next season to ABC, but that NBC can use Horton as guest star in any show — probably "The Virginian" — which will compete for Wednesday night audiences with "Wagon Train." ABC, obviously, is unhappy.

CBS' switch of "The Gertrude Berg Show" to a Thursday night spot opposite NBC's "Hazel" apparently has had one effect: It seems to have knocked the Shirley Booth comedy series out of the Nielsen "Top 10" programs. "Hazel" was in seventh place two weeks ago.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Sunday — "The Broadway of Lerner and Loewe," NBC, 7:30-8:30 p.m. — positively do not miss this musical special built around the musical hits of this composing team, with Maurice Chevalier, Julie Andrews, Stanley Holloway, Robert Goulet, Richard Burton, "Spellbound," NBC, 10-11 — Hugh O'Brian and Maureen O'Hara in a live TV adaptation of the hit movie.

Formula for Milk Price Suggested

WASHINGTON AP — The Agriculture Department has recommended adoption of a uniform basic formula for computing the price of milk for fluid use sold by dairymen in 36 midwestern marketing areas now under federal regulation.

Such price would be based on the average price of manufacturing grade milk at Minnesota and Wisconsin plants. However, the actual price would carry a premium over prices on manufacturing milk.

In recommending this action, the department said there is a lack of uniformity in producer fluid milk prices in these markets because of use of different formulas.

The markets are in West Virginia, Ohio, Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas.

Interested persons have been given until Feb. 16 to submit views. The change must be approved by producers at a referendum.

districts to unite to vote and issue general obligation bonds to finance industrial development or hospital construction bonds. The proposed districts would be larger than cities but smaller than counties.

The plan has been endorsed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the Sheriff's Association, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, and by top officials of the Arkansas Municipal League.

LITTLE SHORT, JUDGE — Judge Marion Beatty of Shawnee County District Court looks sadly at a pair of his own trousers — only you wouldn't know it from the length. An ex-convict admitted to Topeka, Kan., detectives that he broke into the judge's home a month ago and stole suits, coats and other articles of clothing, then had the clothing tailored to fit his 5-8 1/2-inch frame. Rice Farmer Fights Acre Allotments

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — James Weir of Dermott, a rice farmer who is challenging the constitutionality of acreage allotments, filed a list of interrogatories, or questions, in federal District Court here Thursday.

The questions were directed to the United States or its appropriate officer.

Weir's attorneys had said they wanted to take depositions from Agricultural Secretary Orville Freeman. They tried to get him to come to Little Rock, but were told they would have to come to Washington.

Instead of the depositions, they filed the interrogatories.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley ruled Dec. 29 that Weir owed $26,327 in penalties for overplanting his 1959 and 1960 rice allotments, but he allowed Weir 30 days to file a deposition from Freeman because he had expressed a desire to take one.

The ruling was held in abeyance and Henley was studying the interrogatories to decide what to do about them.

The questions included: "What date was used as the basis for determining the national acreage allotments for rice in 1959 and 1960?"

"Is it possible for a rice farmer with a rice acreage allotment of 10 acres to make a living on a farm with a total acreage of over 900 acres?"

"Did the Department of Agriculture conduct a secret ballot of all farmers engaged in growing the preceding crop of rice in 1959 and 1960 to determine if they were in favor of or opposed to rice quotas?"

"In what manner was the secret ballot conducted in order to make it a secret ballot?"

Markets in Decline in Slow Trade

NEW YORK AP — The stock market declined in slow trading early this afternoon as it topped out a string of eight consecutive daily advances.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.10 with industrials off 2.10, rails off .40 and utilities off .10.

Losses of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered gains by a wide margin. Steels, motors, chemicals, electrical equipments, oils and tobacco were among the declining groups.

Jersey Standard, Texaco, Royal Dutch and Standard Oil of Indiana all took fractional losses.

TXL Oil, whose planned takeover by Texaco has made it popular, added another fraction. Amstar added about 2 points. General American Oil advanced about a point.

Brunswick continued to skid, dropping about 2.

Ford was down more than 2 points. General Motors and American Motors lost fractions but Chrysler gained a fraction.

Xerox slid half a dozen points on profit taking.

U.S. Steel declined more than a point while other prominent producers took minor losses.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.44 at 713.38. Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds advanced.

Released From Active Duty

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - William T. Detherage, 36, of Little Rock, is the first Arkansas man to be released from active duty as a result of the Army's announcement that a large number of reservists were called to duty by mistake.

Detherage, chief administrative clerk of the 41st U.S. Army Reserve School in Little Rock when he was called to active duty, was released from Ft. Polk.

Capt. Charles L. Pitts, assistant Army Advisor for the Arkansas Sector Command, said Detherage is the only Arkansas soldier thus far released.

Pitts said reservists called from Hope, Magnolia, Hot Springs,

Moore Loses Some More Of His Title

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York State Athletic Commission followed the example of the National Boxing Association today and stripped ancient Archie Moore of another piece of his light heavyweight boxing championship.

The action was taken after Moore, 45, had failed to heed repeated warnings from the commission to sign for a title defense against either Harold Johnson, the NBA champion from Philadelphia, or Doug Jones, the No. 2 contender from New York.

After vacating Moore's title, the commission directed Johnson and Jones to make plans for a title bout.

The NBA took away recognition from Moore for failure to defend the crown a year ago and installed Johnson as champion when he knocked out Jesse Bowdry.

Moore, who still had been considered champion in New York, Massachusetts and Europe, defended his piece of the title last June 10 when he outpointed Italy's Giulio Rinaldi in New York.

Massachusetts and the European bodies are expected to follow the New York example in taking away recognition from Moore.

Lake Fishing Decline Is Under Study

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - A 12-year study to determine why fishing in man-made lakes declines after a short period was launched today by the University of Arkansas.

The university's departments of zoology, botany and bacteriology are co-operating in the project under sponsorship of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The Department of the Interior has furnished $57,750 to finance the first two years of the study.

South is an answer to the question: why does fishing get increasingly better for a few years and then decline rapidly toward the vanishing point?

Remedial measures, once the decline starts, are costly and only temporarily effective, said Dr. Carl Hoffman, zoology chairman.

"What is needed most is a complete and comprehensive study of an impoundment by a large team of well-equipped workers," he said. "Our team will have no preconceived notions of pet hypotheses. It is going to observe quantitatively all factors which might include fishing success."

The team will study the Beaver Reservoir, near Rogers, starting with tests of soils before the dam which will create the impoundment is completed. Pre-impoundment studies also will be made of fish in present streams.

When the fishing success survey shows that a significant decline has taken place, collected data will be subjected to statistical analysis to decide what factors correlate with the decline, Hoffman said. "Once the vast field of possibilities has been limited this way," he added, "laboratory experiments in aquaria and with scale models of lakes will be made to evoke corrective measures."

Hope Loses Key Games to Smackover

By VINCE FOSTER

The Hope Bobcats missed their bid for a first place tie last night, as the league-leading Smackover Bucks came from behind to win over the Cats 59-51. In the junior game, the Bobkittens were taken 39 to 28.

The Bobcats jumped to an early lead as they went out front 16-11 in the first quarter. They held their lead at the half, 27-26. Murphy and Hatfield kept the Bucks defense going as they popped the sack from the corner and out front. Murphy took 3 more in the third period, but at the buzzer the Cats trailed 43-42. They could not get ahead after that and the fourth quarter was primarily even until the final minute, when desperate Cats fouled in an attempt to get the ball. The Bucks took advantage of these fouls as they hit 10 out of 13 in the final quarter.

Those free throws proved to be the death blow to the Cats, because, although Hope hit 23 field goals to Smackover's 17, the visitors took 22 of 33 free throws to Hope's 5 out of 12. Murphy was high for Hope with 18, followed by Hatfield with 16. Powell and Roberts scored 6 each, while Porterfield had 3 and Purdie 2. Burton led the visitors with 24.

The Kittens were out front 10-9 in the first quarter, but trailed 18-16 at the half. Without the services of Burnett, their leading scorer, the Kittens had a harder time of it. They were outscored 21-12 in the final half. Jordan was high with 10, followed by Ingram and McNatt with 6 each, and Martin, Billings and Guerin with 2 each.

The Bobcats need to forget last night's loss and look toward the remaining district games which are with Camden, Crossett, Magnolia and Fairview. Tonight they meet Camden there. Camden is third right behind the Cats in district and hold a 4-3 record to the Cats 6-2 record. Hope beat the Panthers here 57-41 earlier this year. Smith of Camden is the 6th leading scorer in the district with 101 points. Powell, Murphy and Hatfield all have that many or more but were rated 7th, 8th and 9th respectively, before last night. Wyatt of Camden is 10th with 83 points.

Again you are reminded of the game at Camden tonight with the first game starting at 6:30.

A Closer Walk With God Will Lead You Right Straight to Church

WHICH SIDE?

CHRISTIANITY, or COMMUNISM... Which side are YOU on?
There is a distinct line, "THE IRON CURTAIN," separating the two. Communism is an atheistic, materialistic, scientific, political conspiracy, aligned against God. Communism says, "DOWN WITH THE CROSS!" It declares Man is state-owned property. Christianity, the Bible and God are on one side. The hammer, sickle and Communism on the other. If you are a Communist, you are Godless. If you love God, you are not a communist. Freedom and a sense of human worth are the Bible's gift to mankind. The hammer blows will falter! The sickle's edge will grow dull! The Bible and the church will endure. WHICH SIDE ARE YOU ON?

The Churches of This Community, Are the Only Institutions Which Have as Their Main Function, the Transforming of Human Lives
They Are the Sign Boards Pointing the Way to God.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through this series of pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat Communism on all front . . . to be faithful to God.

Our Ministers Are God's Servants Who Call the Signals Against the Organized Forces of Evil. They Invite You to Enlist On the Side For God . . . to Come to Church.
